

age-specific, genetically determined, relapsing disorder with periods of remission and exacerbation. It is characterized by typical morphology and distribution of lesions, often associated with allergic rhinitis, asthma, and allergic conjunctivitis. The condition is caused by a combination of genetic and environmental factors, leading to a dysfunctional skin barrier and an overactive immune response. The immune system reacts to harmless substances as if they were threats, causing inflammation and the characteristic symptoms of eczema.

[illegible]