

Pathogenesis of Photoaged Skin involves increased thickness of epidermal cells, reduced epidermal thickness, increased thickness of dermal collagen, increased dermal collagen content per unit area and increased dermal collagen synthesis. Basal cell carcinoma and squamous cell carcinoma also occur in photoaged skin.