

This is a clinical photograph of a patient with Epidermolysis bullosa simplex of Weber–Cockayne type. The patient has a large, raised, red, and inflamed lesion on a limb, which is characteristic of the condition. The lesion is surrounded by a red, inflamed area, and there is a small, yellowish, crusted lesion on the hand.