

It is caused by bacteria entering the nail bed through a break in the skin, often from a hangnail or a nail injury. It is commonly caused by prolonged exposure to water without wearing waterproof gloves.