

Hand eczema is a common skin condition that causes redness, itching, and blisters on the hands. It is often caused by contact with irritants or allergens. The condition can be managed with topical corticosteroids and moisturizers. Avoiding triggers and wearing gloves can help prevent flare-ups.