

SYRINGOMA - human body most frequently affected but they can occur in all and it is not of any type of malignancy. They are small, flesh-colored papules, some of which are slightly raised and some are flat. They are usually found in groups and are often associated with other skin conditions such as acne and rosacea.