

Pilomatricoma is a benign skin tumor that arises from the hair follicle. It is characterized by a keratin-filled cyst with a thick, multi-layered wall of basaloid cells. The surrounding tissue shows a cellular reaction, including a layer of palisaded basaloid cells.